

Edgefield, Tenn. July 22, 1907.

Eld. A. G. Daniells,

Washington, D.C.

Dear Brother:--

There is one thing which I feel that it is necessary for me to do, and which I am earnestly trying to do, and that is to get right with God. The first step in this is to place myself right with my brethren. I have felt very keenly many things which have been done in regard to the work with which I was so long connected, and have often spoken in a way that I see was unadvised. I have held feelings toward you that I cannot afford to have the Lord hold toward me. I have at times spoken these out in a way which I can see is not right. I am sorry for this, and ask your forgiveness. I know that such a spirit is not in accordance with the spirit of Christ whatever the provocation may be. I am seeking for the meek and quiet spirit of my Saviour.

It is not probable that we shall ever agree in regard to the way the colored work has been mistreated. But I can be a Christian through it all and this I intend to be.

From Your Brother,

J. E. White