Dear Brother:-

I wrote you a few days ago in regard to the proposition of buying off your 10% and my 10% of the royalties of mother's books as provided for in her will.

In this matter I expressed myself in regard to the share that should be coming to me. Upon thinking of this more carefully, I desire to withdraw the statements there made and leave the settlement arrangement with those who have the matter in charge, and await the proposition.

I think, I have never before expressed myself in these matters and will leave this matter as I have others of a similiar nature.

I shall be glad to receive from you as quickly as possible the proposition which you said you would soon forward. For the past three years I have been trying to clear up obligations as rapidly as possible. The indebtedness to mother has been a serious problem with me and as the conference men have offered to pay both you and me, it will be a matter of gratification to have this obligation cared for promptly, not as a matter of favor to me, but on an even footing with your self.

As ever,

Your brother,

J. C. White
