

But Jesus changed the figure somewhat when He said, "I am the vine; ye are the branches." John 15:5.

Satan was once upon the "holy mountain" of God. The seven heads of the apocalyptic beast are "seven mountains," or kingdoms. The stability and steadfastness of those "that trust in the Lord," is also likened to the mountains about Jerusalem. Ezek. 28:14; Rev. 17:10; Ps. 125:2. ~~The profligate woman~~

The profligate woman of the Apocalypse represents the same power as Paul's "man of sin."

Leaven is used in the Scripture to illustrate "the kingdom of heaven," "hypocrisy," or "malice and wickedness." Luke 13:21; Mark 8:15; 1 Cor. 5:8.

~~The wicked are said to be "like the troubled sea," yet no one is disturbed~~
